

Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences
Department of Economics &
Department of
Urban and Rural Development

PEOPLE, SOCIETY AND SUSTAINABILITY RESEARCH SCHOOL

www.slu.se/pss

PhD Courses

We hereby welcome you to the PhD course:

Early Modern Social Inequality

7,5 CREDITS ▪ 20 MAR–14 JUN 2024

This course gives you insights into the research on inequality in Early Modern Europe in general, and Sweden in particular (c. 1500–1800): the main empirical findings, as well as the methods and the theoretical explanatory models used.

The course includes:

- the historiography of how (in-)equality rose as an intellectual concept and as an interest of research;

- the latest findings concerning how wealth and income inequality shifted over time and between regions;
- the debates regarding why and how inequality grew; and what consequences inequality had for the population of Early Modern Europe.

COURSE LEADER

Martin Andersson, Researcher, Division of Agrarian History, SLU

COURSE SYLLABUS

For course syllabus »

HOW AND WHEN TO APPLY

Send an email to: martin.a.andersson@slu.se

No later than 10th of March 2024