Information

Camilla Lindelöw and Mauritz Jadefrid is the PhD representatives in ReSource steering group. There was a meeting with the steering group 23rd of November 2023 which Camilla and Mauritz attended. Brief information from the steering meeting in November: Camilla and Mauritz gave feedback to the steering group about the upcoming doctoral workshop in Uppsala, some comments about the writing retreat in Varberg that just had taken place and the Just read and write-sessions. In the meeting, information about the first ReSource-course was given. Next years writing retreat were also discussed and Camilla and Mauritz got the task to collect testimonies from doctoral students on how they experienced the writing retreats. This were later on sent till Svensk Biblioteksforening, who pays for the retreat. Björn Hammarfeldt left as meeting chair and Isto Huvila is now the meeting chair.

The Reading retreat takes place in October this year and it might be the last one due to lack of funding. We discussed location for the retreat, since it was on the west coast last year, it will be on the east coast this time, probably near Uppsala. Suggestions from the doctoral students are Marholmen <https://marholmen.se/en/>, Hotell havsbaden i Grisslehamn <https://www.hotellhavsbaden.se/>, Gimo herrgård <http://www.gimoherrgard.se/> och Noors slott <https://noorsslott.se/noorsslott-in-english/>. It's nice to be somewhere a bit from Stockholm to avoid distractions.

Resource courses: We (all PhDs, not just Resource-PhDs) would like to receive more information on the Resource-courses earlier than was the case with this first course.

Ladok: when doctoral students take a course at another university, the course doesn't register in Ladok automatically. You have to contact your research officer or similar to ask for help.

The difference between credited or complete course in Ladok- Credited can be that it is from another university, completed is courses completed in the home university.

Information from Camilla Lyckblad about Medical Humanities Ph.D event in Umeå in October. You should all have gotten an email about the event.

Zanna Friberg shared information about Uppsala's time keeping spreadsheet. This is for the whole PhD period to know whether you have the right to extension.

Discussion about the email-list for doctoral students and Slack- where can we discuss and share things with each other? The national mailing list (lis.doktorander@lists.sunet.se) is one option. Apart from PhD-students, this list also contain other administrative and research personnel. Slack is an option for discussions and sharing tools and informal things, like the excel file/worksheet they have in Uppsala. We decided to try Slack to discuss the time-keeping.

Feedback on the workshops in Uppsala- are we (Camilla and Mauritz) as representatives a part of planning the workshops? As this is local planning, the others, including us PhD students, do not take part in the planning.

The workshop this year had some things that can be improved for next time, it was very vague about how to arrange the sessions and what to expect from the sessions. Sessions were a good idea and could be described better beforehand. It would be good to clarify and describe more about the program. Some doctoral students thought it were difficult with all the links and where to find all the information about the workshop, others thought it was a good system.
